

PRIVEX

privacy meets anonymity

WHITEPAPER

INTRODUCTION

In this contemporary world of ever developing technological advancements, privacy has now become a commodity rather than a right and the price of privacy minded services is much higher than that of normal services. Whichever field we go, privacy is given the utmost priority. Specially in the world of erotica, this is of prime demand.

While most of the premium sexual activities' platform viz-a-viz, porn sites are a paid venture, the trail of payments makes people reluctant to use it many a times. Everyone loves privacy, most of the people like to keep their sex lives hidden and would never want their partner or anyone else know that they are paying for fetishes like porn or any related merchandise/app membership which have a sexual nature. Unfortunately, these are natural and rather normal instincts for anyone to have and should be acknowledged and let be rather than despise upon.

Everyone must have wished for an alternative to this dilemma. Well, if you are one of them, look no further. We have got you covered!

PRIVEX is a cryptocurrency, which is created with the idea of providing its users the much deserved and necessitated privacy and data security. It can be used for payments on such websites while giving the transaction an appearance of investment into crypto, thus keeping their transactions safe and personalized.

There will be a wallet present as where a consumer can easily access and get their money converted to our token and then use it from there. Furthermore, the plans are to develop an exquisite dating app as well, where PRIVEX could be used as a currency. This will not only facilitate one's personal liberty of sexual arousal and exploration, but also ease the transaction process transforming it into a more accessible path. A bare minimum of information is asked from the customer and a full-fledged assurity of data privacy is facilitated.

Subsequently, there is a further humanitarian aspect to it as well. A portion of every transaction will be used to help the less fortunate and needy; surprisingly enhancing its moral high grounds too to some extent. With such additional features, it easily makes up for something to give it a go.
